

Welcome to MissionAutism.com

Contributed by Administrator
Last Updated Sunday, 27 April 2008

Welcome to MissionAutism.com, a website and information portal for parents who want to treat medical problems associated with their child's autism; frequently known as biomedical treatments. There are thousands of parents who have successfully used biomedical treatments to help their children; this site is dedicated to distributing the knowledge gleaned during years of research. We aren't here to tell you can cure your child, (though we know children who have lost their diagnosis of autism), but rather, you can help your child. If you are new to biomedical treatments, try our FAQ for more information. Like autism, and autism research, this site is a work in progress. Please check back often for updates.